Sleepy Hollow Homes Association
at www.shha.org

Believe it or not, I just finished reading through all the Bylaws for the Sleepy Hollow Homes Association. I'm sure each and every one of you has done that at one time or another, right? One thing I did not know, as the President of the Homes Association here in Sleepy Hollow, is I get to make new rules, kind of an executive authority. So with my new power as President I am making my first new rule: the month of March is Be Kind To Your Neighbor Month. Of course, I'm kidding – there is no executive power in the Bylaws but I'm not kidding about being kind to your neighbor. Let's face it, it's been a challenging winter, between the presidential elections, the debate over the Ross Valley Charter school, and the massive amount of rain bringing flooding and landslides to our area. It's been a little stressful on each of us and our neighbors.

So let's do it! As we head into Spring, perhaps we could all take a step back and remember how lucky we are to be living in such a beautiful place. I know it sounds kind of corny and maybe just a little bit new agey, but I do believe focusing on the good around us can do all of us a world of good. So by doing something kind for your neighbor, remember you are actually doing something kind for yourself. It comes back two-fold. At least that's my opinion.

So below are some ideas of inspiration during our very own Be Kind To Your Neighbor Month taken from a website called "Good Neighbor Stories":

- Buy something for someone behind you in line (pay for a meal in the drive-through, buy a cup of coffee, etc.)

- Write a few inspirational sayings on cards and leave them in public places for others to find

- Park at the back of the parking lot; you get more exercise and someone who might need it gets a closer spot!

- Leftover dinner or dessert? Knock on your neighbors door and see if they'd like some.

- Reach out to someone you haven't spoken to in a long time

- Smile at a minimum of five people (how about in one hour!)

- Hold the door open for someone

- Pick up trash on your street

- Let the person behind you in line go ahead of you

- Go through your closet and find several items to donate to charity

- Share your umbrella with someone who doesn't have one

- Tell someone who works for the public—teacher, police officer, nurse, mail carrier, etc.—how much you appreciate his or her service

- Leave your waiter/waitress/barista a generous tip

- Look someone straight in the eye, ask them how they are, and then really listen

News & Notes from Supervisor Katie Rice

Storm Update

As I write this column, the latest (10th), in a series of major weather systems is unleashing itself on our county. And for the sixth time in two months, emergency warnings have been issued advising Ross Valley residents to prepare for localized flooding, to protect property and move cars to higher ground if in flood plain, and to observe caution generally.

74 inches of rain have fallen at Lake Lagunitas since July 1, with 99% of it falling since October 15. This is more than double the rainfall received all of last year and twice the annual average. The ground has become so saturated, and has been saturated for so long, that soil is giving way where it has not before—on hillsides, creek banks, roadways, within neighborhoods, in our parks and open space.

While we have as yet, been spared a broad-spread flood event a la 2005, localized flooding and landslides throughout Marin have damaged private property, closed roads, and undermined critical infrastructure leading the County to request and receive emergency declaration from the state and federal governments. The declaration allows for local agencies to access funding for costs associated with emergency storm response, repairs and replacement of public facilities damaged by the storms.

The havoc these storms are wreaking and the conditions they leave behind have our emergency responders, public works crews, teams from PG&E, other utilities and support contractors working round the clock to keep roads clear, power on, people safe. From where I sit, while there have been the inevitable road closures and power outages, given the severity and sheer number of storm events, our emergency responders and agencies/organizations supporting them have done an amazing job.

Major improvements in communication, coordination, and availability of real-time/reliable information have been key in elevating the level of both official and general public storm preparation and response. Communications around storm warnings, road and school closure notifications, and flood preparedness dispatches now go out via social media, text, phone, email. (Sign up for Alert Marin (www.alertmarin.org) and/or Nixle (www.nixle.com) if you have not already.) Real-time data being provided through improved weather radar, expanded creek gauge system and on-site camera feeds are all helping to improve forecasting and provide timely information to officials and the public.

My thanks to the emergency responders throughout the Ross Valley and beyond, to Sleepy Hollow Fire District, SHHA, the Creek Committee, and to neighbors throughout Sleepy Hollow for your diligence in supporting community efforts, in protecting your own property and watching out for each other.

There will be ongoing need for caution while driving in the weeks and even months ahead as forecasts call for ongoing weather, and as conditions allow, storm damage is addressed. Roads have taken a particular beating this winter, with the constant rain and traffic conditions creating/exacerbating potholes, cracks, erosion and more, and providing little opportunity in between for roads crews to do even basic patching, pothole filling and repairs.

We also need to stay vigilant per keeping the waterways, gutters, storm drains etc. on our own property clear throughout the winter. And in the longer term, the efforts of all to improve storm resiliency through creek maintenance, bank stabilization, improving/repairing storm drain

With sincere gratitude Zamira thanks the Sleepy Hollow community for making 2016 her best year yet!

Board members: David Swaim, Scott Hindergardt, Jen Haskell, Carl Coughlin, Sean Westfall, Jan Blackford, Jennifer Gauna

Non-board members: Steve Knox, Mitch Todd, Christina Fitzgibbons, John Richard, Craig Nelson

Open Time, public expression

Sleepy Hollow resident Christina Fitzgibbons called on SHHA board to be well-informed and pay close attention to what's happening with Ross Valley Charter School which is scheduled to open in 2017/18 on the White Hill Middle School campus. Christina drew attention to the impact RVC will have upon the district, and in particular, our neighborhood schools especially if RVC outgrows their space at WHMS.

Budget Update

Mitch Todd reported for Treasurer Bradley Johnson that expenses are reduced and SHHA cash position is up.

Membership Update and Discussion

Membership chair Jan Blackford says memberships are already being received using the new online registration forms. Discussion took place over coordinating welcome gifts and messages to new residents. Planning for a members-only movie night to take place in April was also set in motion.

Building and Grounds Update

Grounds Manager Steve Knox detailed the major and immediate repairs needed at the clubhouse and pool room, and also highlighted that the pool equipment life span is short and expenses are great as the community project gets delayed. Steve reported preparations for the summer swim season are well underway with the hiring process and training happening now.

Butterfield Safe Street Committee Update

Newsletter Advertising

Discussion took place over what is advertised in the newsletter and the current advertising rates. The board considered raising commercial advertising rates and the possibility of making advertising a revenue stream.

MMWD: Our Community Coming Together

By Jack Gibson, MMWD Board Member, February 15, 2017

"Fire-flow" is the term fire professionals use to describe how much water and infrastructure is required in a given location to be protected against fire. The water district provides potable water to about 190,000 residents and business, and serves approximately 147 square miles. MMWD has over 900 miles of pipe and water mains, over 90 pump stations, and crews working on that system 24/7. However, alone it does not meet the county's fire-flow needs. Much of southern and central Marin is made up of wildlands, which pose unique fire risks, and even more challenging, much of those wildlands serve as urban-interface for residential neighborhoods.

Throughout the 1980s and into the 1990s, the County of Marin, some city councils, local fire departments, and the water district all quarreled over how to pay, and who was responsible to pay, the significant costs required for an adequate fire-flow system in Marin. The Loma Prieta earthquake in 1989, followed by the 1991 Oakland Hills fire, and then by our own Mount Vision fire in West Marin brought into focus the risks of fire for Marin. A Civil Grand Jury was convened in 1992, and in 1993, and again in 1994 to study the adequacy of water delivery in the event of a major fire in the county.

In 1994 the late Supervisor Hal Brown brought the community together forming the Fire-Flow Study Group. It was a working committee with representatives from the Marin Fire Chief's Association, the water district, and various towns of Marin. Pooling community resources, the water district commissioned a major engineering study to identify hydraulic improvements needed for fire-flow capability and seismic reliability. The effort resulted in the "Integrated System Reliability Study," more commonly known as the Fire-Flow Master Plan (FFMP). The estimated cost of the necessary improvements was $77 million dollars. In 1996 the Study Group recommended funding a 15-year improvement program using a unified, multi-jurisdictional approach based on the boundaries of the water district. It was agreed that a measure would be placed on the ballot. On November 5, 1996 the voters approved a Fire-Flow Fee of $75 to be assessed against each parcel for 15 years. The fund has operated as an independent fund, managed by the Water District, but separate from the District's annual budget. In 2012, with the expiration of the original 15-year term, the Fire-Flow Fund was renewed and will now continue to 2031. Using a combination of water district capital improvement funds, and fire-flow funds, nearly $100 million dollars have been invested to replace 82 miles of fire-flow deficient pipeline, install new hydrants and make seismic upgrades—all making Marin a safer place to live.

Volunteers for Committees Needed

By David Swain, SHHA President

There are two projects in Sleepy Hollow that I would personally like to see get started this spring and summer.

- The first one is to look into the feasibility of adding a dedicated bike lane all the way up and down Butterfield Road. This would add to the safety of all our kids as they bike back and forth to school.
- The second is to remove the invasive Pampas grass that grows wild near the clubhouse on Butterfield Road. A native of Argentina, Pampas grass competes aggressively with our California native plants and has razor-sharp leaves. Benefits of removal of this plant: help to eliminate the fire hazard and add more parking for swim meets and such near the clubhouse.

If you'd like to volunteer and help with either of these projects please contact David Swain, david@SHHA@gmail.com.

March: Be Kind to Your Neighbor Month

- Tell a teacher how much you appreciate him or her
- If someone you know lost a loved one in the past year, send a note or some flowers to let them know you are thinking about him or her as they mourn the loss
- Take a container of homemade soup to a sick friend
- Plant a few flowers where others can enjoy them
- Shop at a locally-owned business; find something encouraging to say to the owner
- Remember every smile counts and being kind simply feels good.

A few items of business now, please join me in wishing a speedy recovery to Tom Finn, Sleepy Hollow resident and fire board member. Tom recently had some major back surgery, I really hope to see him back out and about in the Hollow soon.

Additionally, I know I promised an update on the clubhouse/disaster center rebuild, but I do not have a real one at this point. Please bear with me as an update will be forthcoming, most likely in April. Thank you for your patience in regards to this matter.

OK, let's hope for an early spring so we can get back outside and start smiling at our friends and neighbors.
